The Company is required to confirm, deny, or clarify, within the timelines specified by law, any reported event or information in the mainstream media that is not general in nature and suggests that a rumor of an impending specific event or information is circulating among the investing public. This obligation arises upon a material price movement as may be specified by the stock exchanges or SEBI.

The Company shall monitor mainstream media, including specified English-language business/financial news sources in relevant foreign jurisdictions having material business operations, as identified by the Authorized Persons/Board from time to time in accordance with applicable law and Industry Standards.

7 DETERMINATION OF MATERIALITY

Materiality has to be determined on a case-to-case basis depending on specific facts and circumstances relating to the respective information/event. Any information or event, whether positive or negative, should be regarded as “material” if it meets the qualitative and/or quantitative criteria for materiality set out in this Policy, or is deemed to be material under the Applicable Laws.

Information shall be considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable investor would consider such information important in making an investment decision. In determining materiality, a direct and reasonably perceivable impact (not a remote impact) shall be considered.

The Company may consider the following ‘quantitative’ or ‘qualitative’ criteria to determine whether a particular event/information is material in nature:

7.1 Quantitative criteria: The omission of an event or information, whose value or the expected impact in terms of value, exceeds the lower of the following:

- (a) Two percent of turnover, as per the last audited consolidated financial statements of the Company;
- (b) Two percent of net worth, as per the last audited consolidated financial statements of the Company, except in case the arithmetic value of the net worth is negative;
- (c) Five percent of the average of absolute value of profit/loss after tax, as per the last three audited consolidated financial statements of the Company.

While computing the expected impact in terms of value of an event, the Company shall refer to the Industry Standards.

7.2 Qualitative criteria: The omission of an event/information which is likely to:

- (a) Result in a discontinuity or alteration of event or information already available publicly; or
- (b) Result in significant market reaction if the said omission came to light at a later date; or
- (c) Result in material reputational impact having a reasonably perceivable impact on the Company or its securities

Note: In circumstances where ‘quantitative’ test may not be applicable, ‘qualitative’ test may be applied to determine materiality and in cases where both the above criteria are not applicable, an event or information may be treated as being material, if in the opinion of the Board of Directors of the Company, the event or information is considered material.

In no case shall the definition of materiality be less expansive than that provided under the Listing Regulations.

7.3 Notwithstanding anything stated above, the Board of Directors of the Company may prescribe any other criteria, from time to time, to determine materiality of events/information under this Policy. However, such criteria shall not dilute the requirements prescribed under the Listing Regulations.

7.4 For every event or information the listed in Para B - Part A of Schedule III of the Listing Regulations, reference can be made to the ISF note or any other circular(s), FAQ(s) issued by SEBI or Stock Exchanges from time to time.

Ten (10) lakhs or more imposed by any other authority or judicial body, shall be disclosed to the Stock Exchange(s) within twenty-four (24) hours; fines and penalties below these thresholds shall be disclosed on a quarterly basis.
